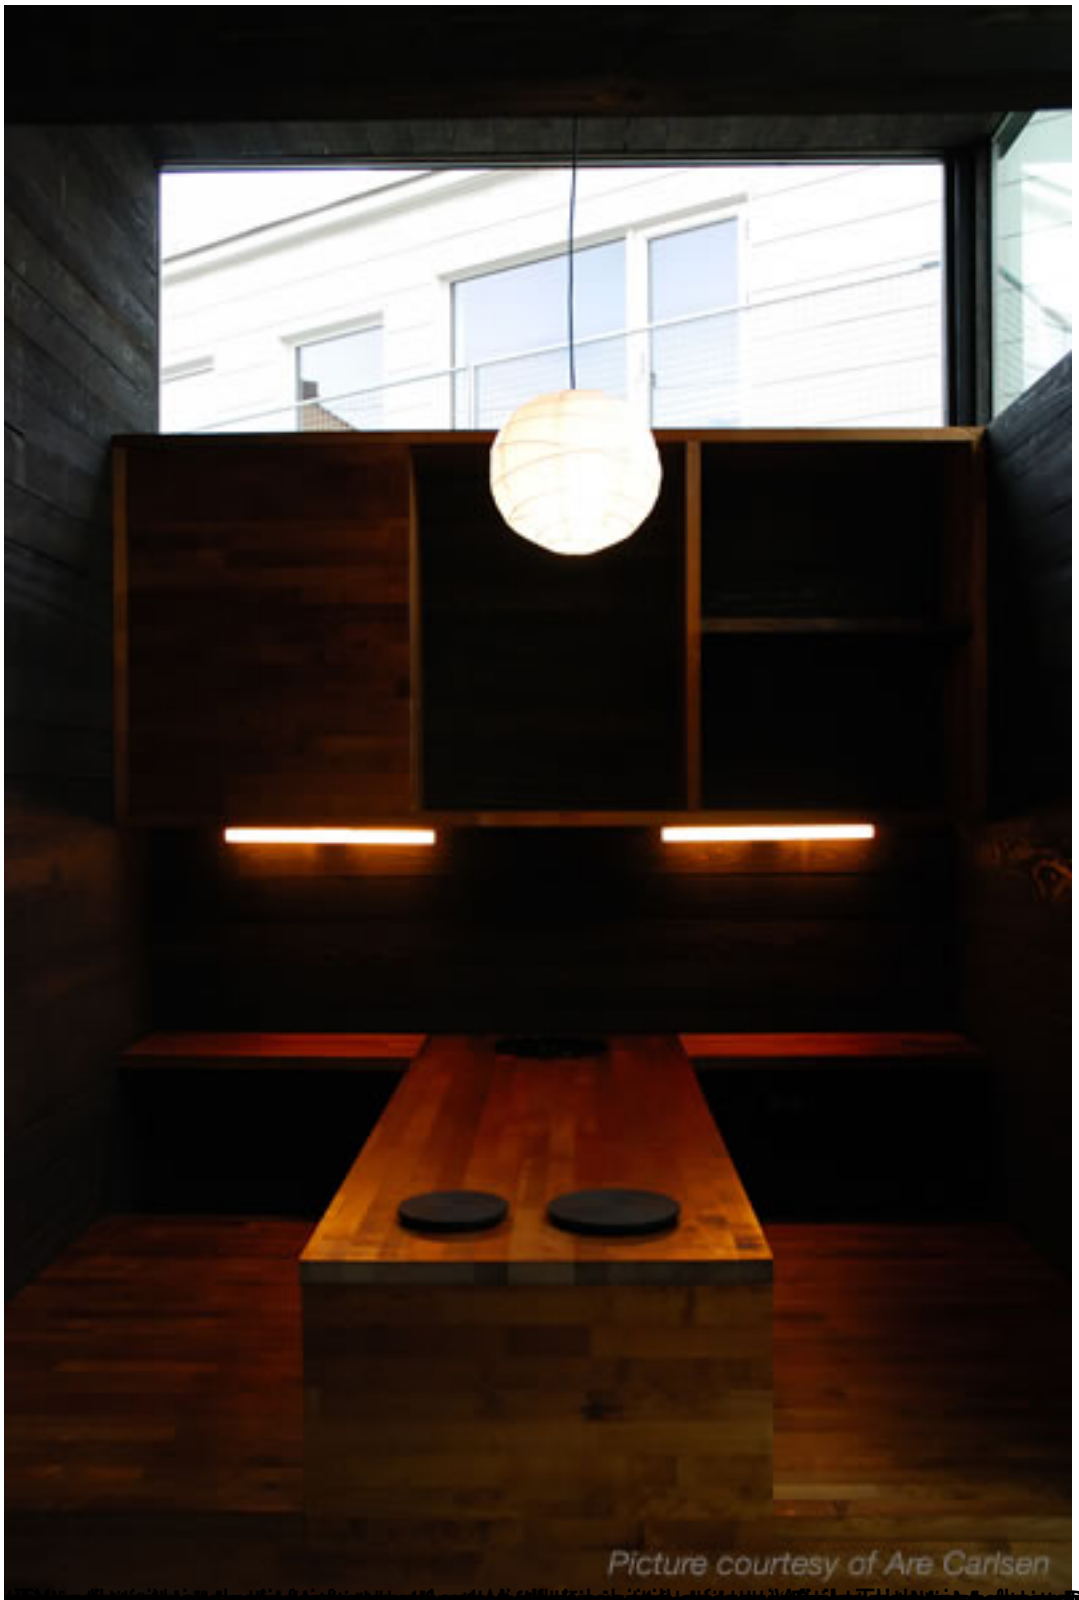
Sami Rintala designed a box while thinking outside the box, In his quest to develop a low-cost, energy efficient residence, he came out with a solution that bears an interesting spatial composition.

This dwelling has 19m2 (200sqft) of living space, subdivided in four rooms that are covering the basic functions of the house and distributed at different levels. They include a kitchen with dining, bathroom, living room and bedroom.

Photographs are courtesy of Ivan Brodey and Are Carlsen

Picture courtesy of Ivan Brodey



Picture courtesy of Are Carlsen

Picture courtesy