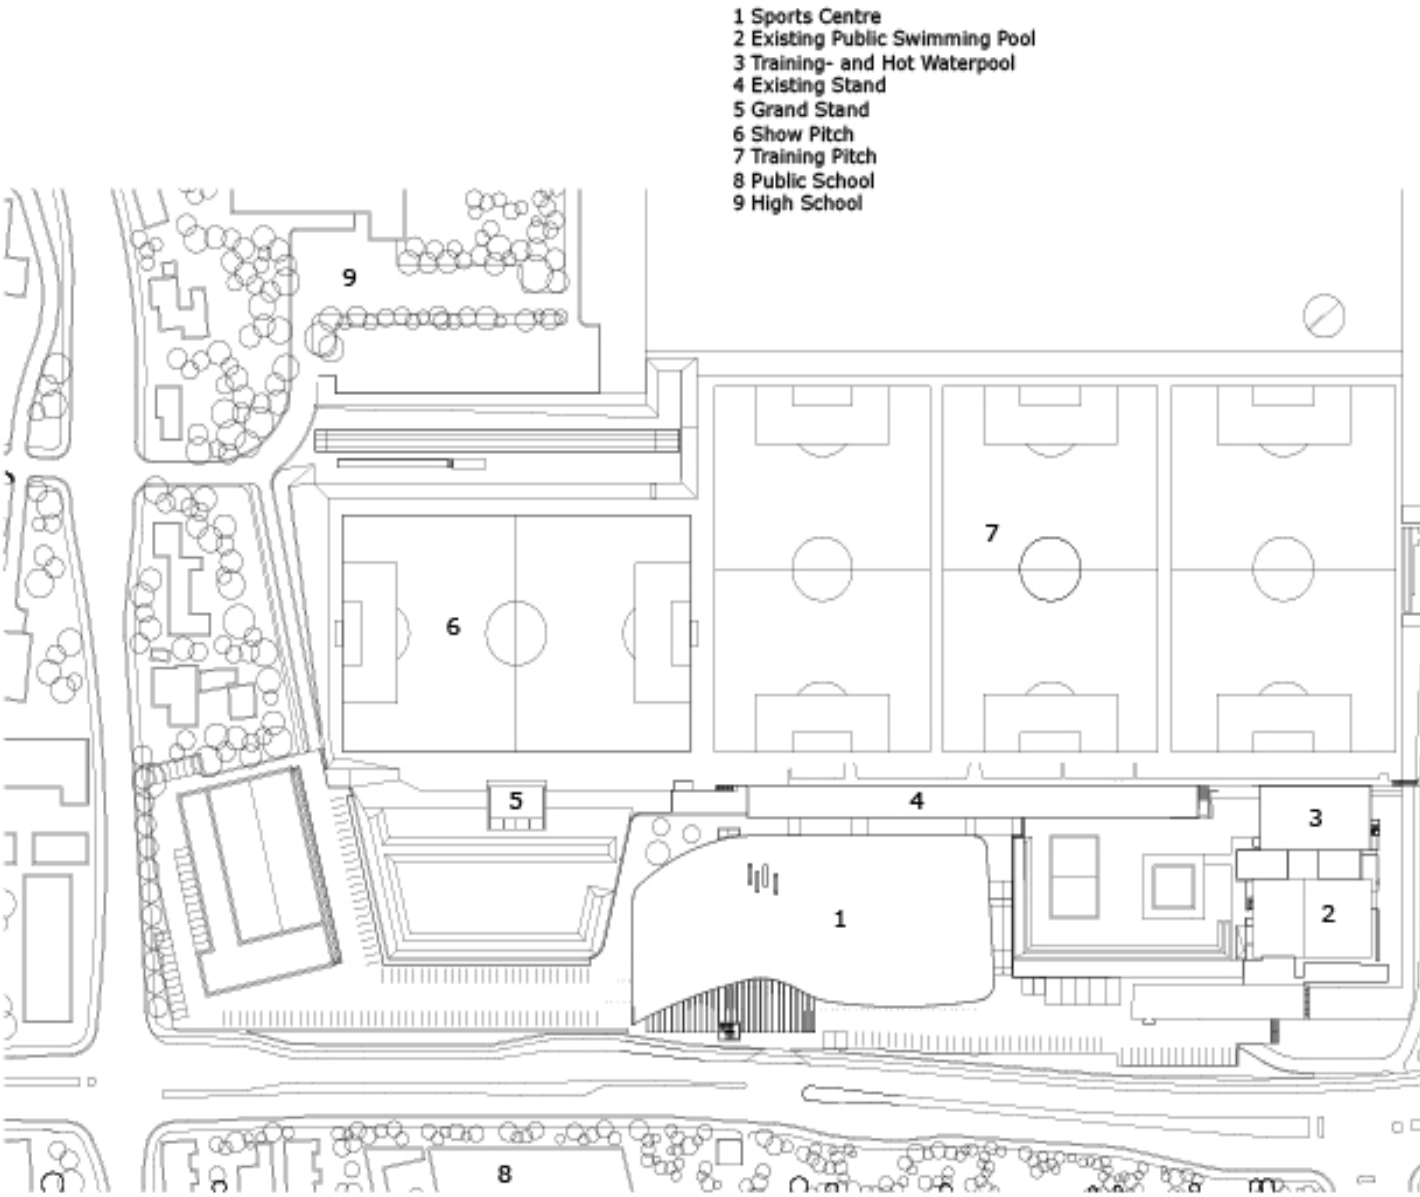
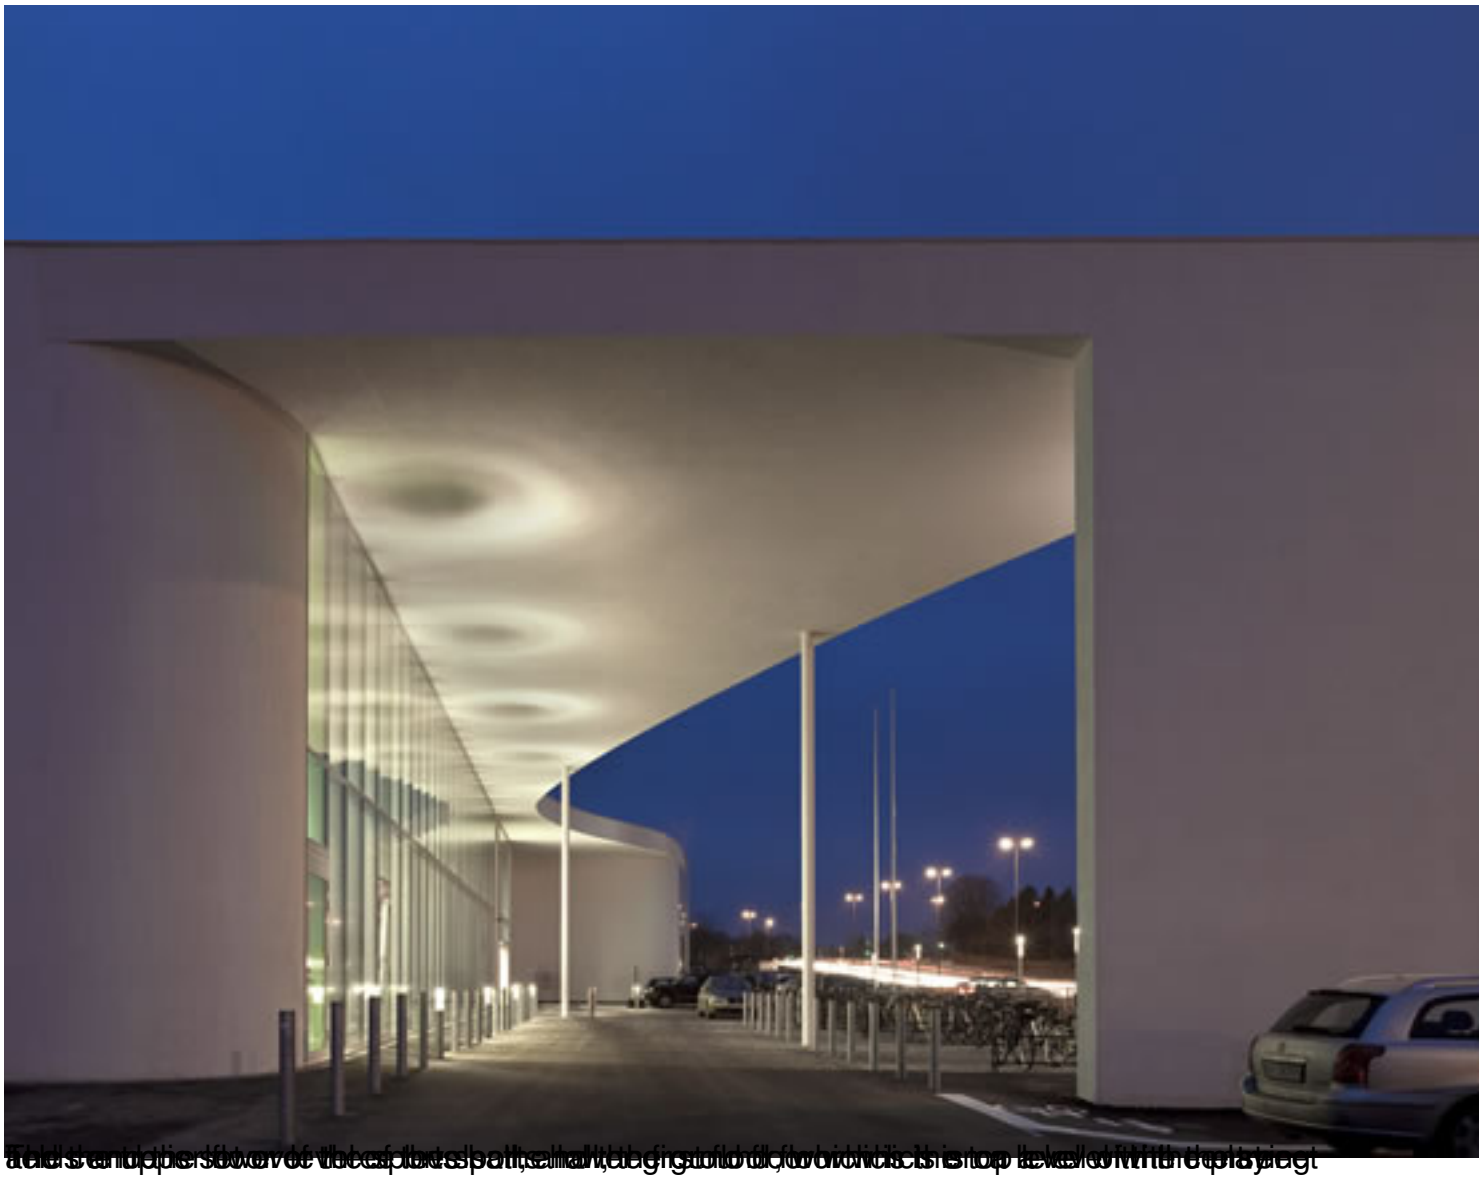
Birkerød's new sports and recreation centre is a multi-purpose hub in Birkerød's public space. The site is elongated and has two very distinct sides: an urban side with traffic circulating, and a green, recreational side.

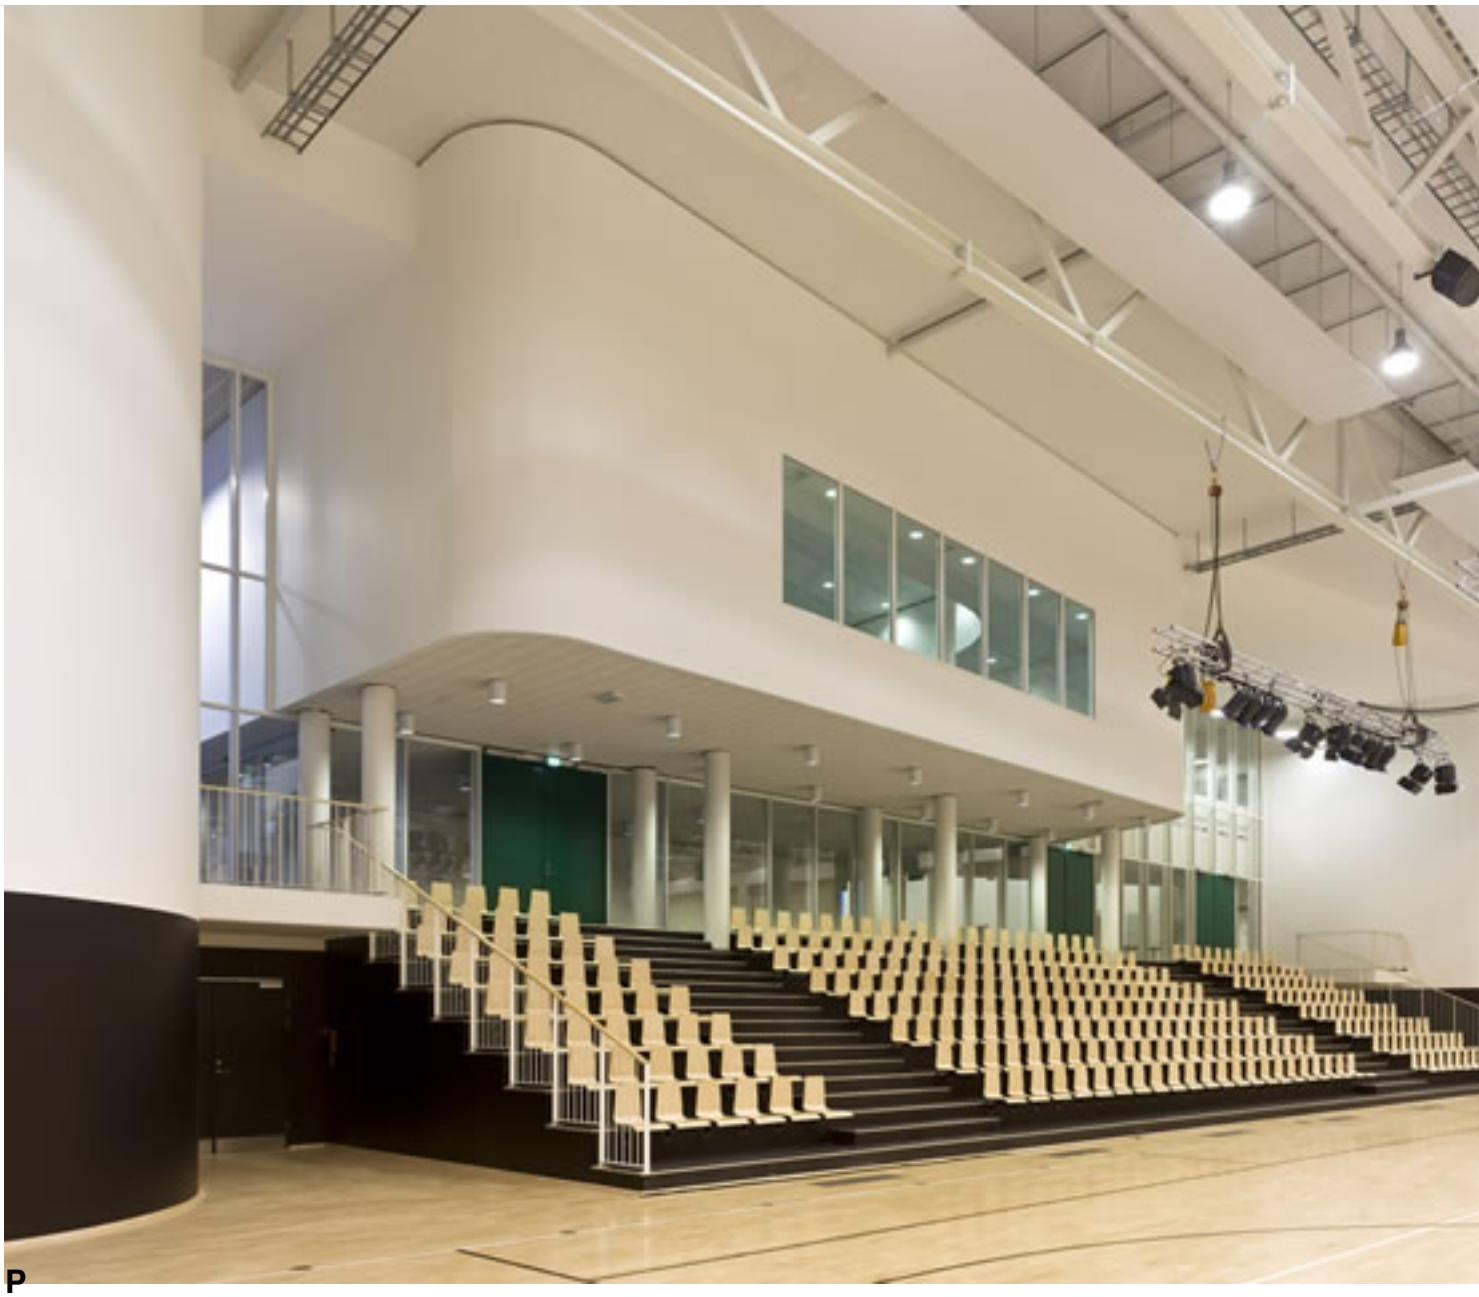
The project covers the new build of a multi-purpose sports hall, an activity foyer, a fitness centre, dance studios, a balcony for children and young people and the erection of a covered football stand. It also includes the refurbishment of the existing stadium building.



Site Plan

The design evolves around the idea of a single building, a compact, unified and legible entity. The building is organized in two parts, the existing and the extended, upgraded and new sports facilities.





P

[illegible] Design and Handicraft for the facade