

Set within a suburban setting, the project addresses the issue of distance between residential dwellings and commercial spaces. While the complex is mostly composed of residential units, small commercial functions – live/work lofts and ground floor retail spaces – are injected into the project, contributing a shared energy to the public spaces.

Outdoor rooms, shaped and shaded by the enclosing buildings, are the organizing framework for the project. Native, drought-tolerant landscaping is provided throughout the development.

Miller|Hull Partnership - Safari Drive in Scottsdale, Arizona. Photo by [unreadable] for [unreadable]

Scripted at 11:56 AM on 10/12/2010. Price is standard on the market. Call us at 480.990.6600 for more information. $245,000/price/2300

