

The prevailing warm climate of this Caribbean country along with the particular location of the project within a 7.000 m<sup>2</sup> plot of land along the coast line, have determined the ideas that A-cero Studio had for this luxurious residence.

The massing is subdivided in two blocks, both composed of curved and straight surfaces interacting and forming dynamic spaces. The house is covered with a light coralline stone procured locally. The stone's light colour, and smooth texture helps in taking advantage of the Caribbean sun, as it accentuates the curvilinear attributes of the space, through light and shadows. {sidebar id=2}
{sidebar id=1}

The house is a prime example of modern architecture, characterized by its clean lines and sculptural forms. The cantilevered roof is a key feature, creating a sense of lightness and openness. The use of white for the exterior walls and the dark wood for the interior accents adds to the minimalist aesthetic. The landscaping, with its tropical plants, complements the modern design.

With its sweeping lines, the house is a masterpiece of modern architecture. The curved concrete walls and the large wooden door create a sense of movement and fluidity. The house is a perfect example of how to blend modern design with natural elements.

That furniture is implicitly decided by the interior program, built to measurement, and conceived to

© 2011 by Joaquin Torres Architects. All rights reserved. Photo by Rafael Llamazares, Dominican Republic.