

Photograph by Dana Wheelock This sixth floor penthouse overlooks to city lakes, the Uptown retail district and the city skyline beyond. Designed for a young professional, the space is shaped by distinguishing the private and public realms through sculptural spatial gestures. Upon entry, a curved wall of white marble dust plaster pulls one into the space and delineates the boundary of the private master suite.

The master bedroom space is screened from the entry by a translucent glass wall layered with a perforated veil creating optical dynamics and movement. This functions to privatize the master suite, while still allowing light to filter through the space to the entry. Suspended cabinet elements of Australian Walnut float opposite the curved white wall and Walnut floors lead one into the living room and kitchen spaces.

{sidebar id=2}
{sidebar id=1}

Photograph by Dana Wheelock

Altus Architecture + Design - Uptown Penthouse in Minneapolis, Minnesota

Photograph by Dana Wheelock

Photo by David M. O'Connell for Altus Architecture + Design. All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or by any information storage and retrieval system, without the prior written permission of Altus Architecture + Design.

Photograph by Dana Wheelock

to, and the other side of the building, the building is a classic single-story building with a