

One of the hardest and most challenging tasks for an architect designing a house is to take an existing project and transforming it into a house that is geared towards a more contemporary lifestyle.

With Casa AV, BGP arquitectura has been able to achieve great results in the redesigning of a house from the 70's of no significant architectural value and located in front of one of the most important avenues of Mexico City.

What is most impressive is the fact that, due to a restrained budget, the original structure was kept intact.

640x480px, The original image is available at www.bgp-arquitectura.com. The image is a photograph of a modern interior space, likely a living area, featuring a long, low white sofa, a dark wood coffee table, and a stone fireplace wall. A large window looks out onto a pool and greenery. A white cylindrical pendant light hangs from the ceiling.

Exterior view of Casa AV, designed by Sergio Enrique Mendoza and Hugo Sánchez Barrios

More Projects by BGP Arquitectura