

Located on the hill above a small village at some 150km from Mexico City, the main feature of this retreat is its magnificent view. Its aim is to live with the landscape under a canopy with as few interior elements as possible.

A fireplace, a kitchen bar and a marble platform 20m long laid as a free floor plan for public areas and garage on top of a solid block which houses the rest of the program, namely services, three bedrooms and a family room.

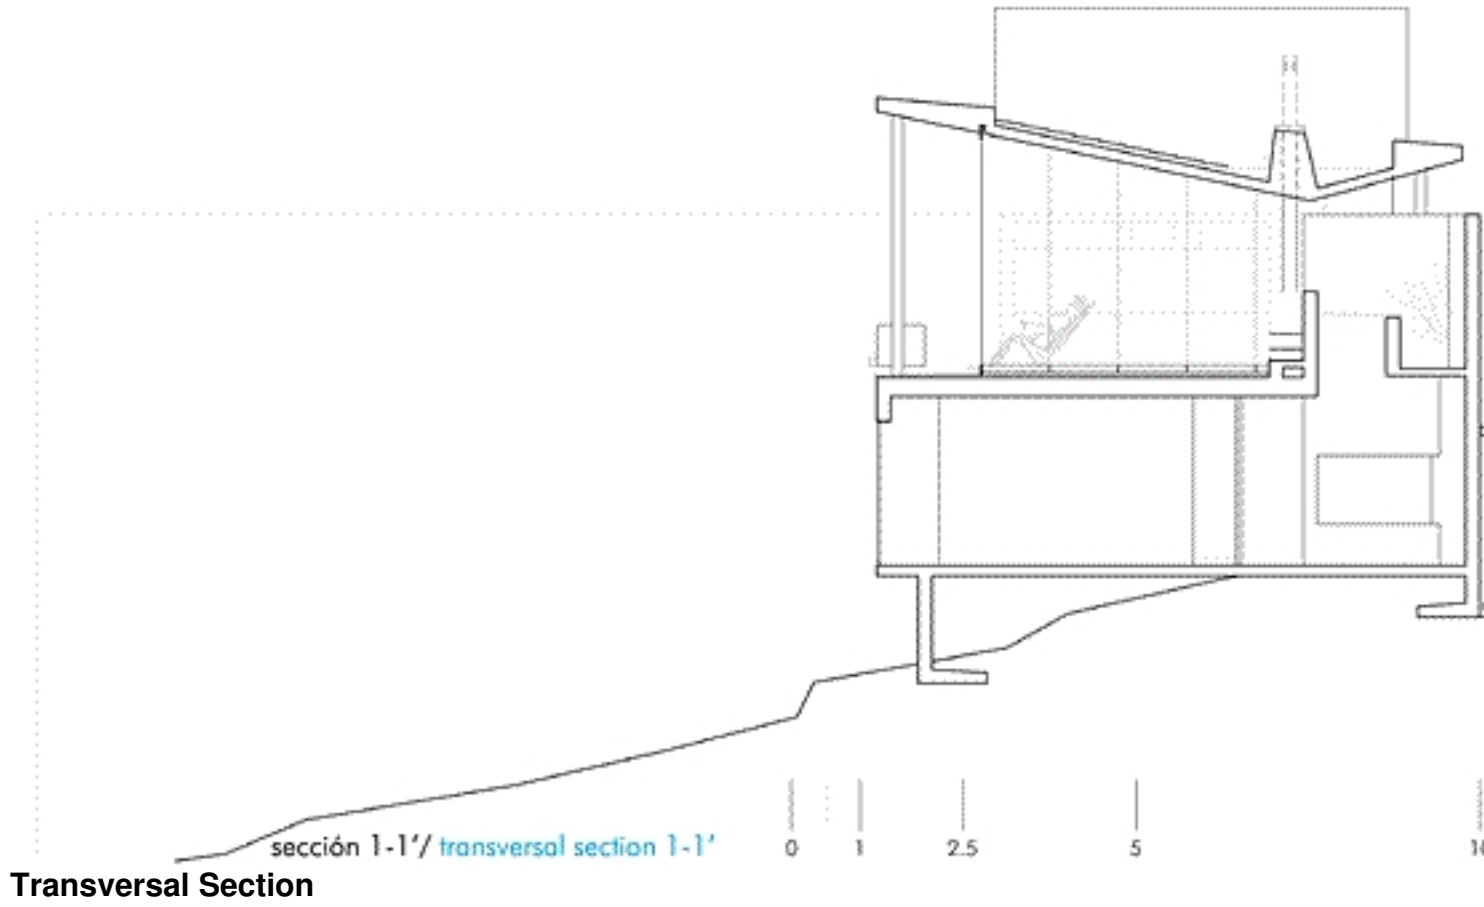

Figura 6. Vista del interior del edificio, mostrando la pared perforada y el techo de concreto.

With its minimalist design, the building emphasizes its organic elements with materials like natural stone and wood. The space is designed to be open and airy, with large windows and a high ceiling that allows natural light to flood the interior. The architecture is a blend of modern and traditional styles, creating a unique and inviting atmosphere.

More Projects by BGP Arquitectura