

Located in a diversified borough within the outer areas of London, England, this project is the first phase of Allford Hall Monaghan Morris' re-development of Barking Central I for their client Redrow Regeneration & London Borough of Barking and Dagenham . The scheme comprises 246 one and two-bedroom flats in two new six storey blocks sitting above the two floors of a totally revitalised and extended library.

Photograph © Timothy Soar. The building is supported by a concrete structure.

Photograph © Kilia

Photograph © Kilian O'Sullivan

© All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or by any information storage and retrieval system, without the prior written permission of the copyright owner.

~~Public information for the public, this is not a confidential document and should not be used for legal proceedings. All rights reserved. This document is the property of Allford Hall Monaghan Morris Architects. Any use of this document without the prior written consent of Allford Hall Monaghan Morris Architects is prohibited.~~
Public information for the public, this is not a confidential document and should not be used for legal proceedings. All rights reserved. This document is the property of Allford Hall Monaghan Morris Architects. Any use of this document without the prior written consent of Allford Hall Monaghan Morris Architects is prohibited.
Follow-up Article:

Barking Central II developed on the site of Barking Town Hall and is now called the Appleton