

The Board of Directors of The American Institute of Architects (AIA) voted on December 3rd to award the 2010 AIA Gold Medal to Peter Bohlin, FAIA. Bohlin, founder of Bohlin Cywinski Jackson, which has five U.S. offices, is renowned for his versatile, contextual use of materials.

All Photographs are courtesy of the AIA

The AIA Gold Medal, voted on annually, is considered to be the profession's highest honor that an individual can receive. The Gold Medal honors an individual whose significant body of work has had a lasting influence on the theory and practice of architecture. Bohlin will be honored at the 2010 AIA National Convention in Miami.

“I’m so pleased and I’m surprised,” said Bohlin upon hearing the the AIA’s Board decision. “We all believe in architecture. It is our life to a great extent. Like athletes, we all know that it’s hard work to make it look easy, and we’re all constantly striving to do that.”

Ledge House in Catoclin Mountains, Maryland

A House that builds a serene, natural light-bathed retreat in Maryland's Catoclin Mountain region by arranging a series of timber and stone pavilions in a horseshoe pattern.

A retrospective view of 2010 AIA Gold Medalist, Peter Bohlin - Part 1

Sunday, 06 December 2009 11:45 - Last Updated Monday, 07 December 2009 07:23

© 2009 Peter Bohlin Architects. All rights reserved. This document is the property of Peter Bohlin Architects and is not to be distributed, copied, or reproduced without the written consent of Peter Bohlin Architects.

A retrospective view of 2010 AIA Gold Medalist, Peter Bohlin - Part 1

Sunday, 06 December 2009 11:45 - Last Updated Monday, 07 December 2009 07:23

A retrospective view of 2010 AIA Gold Medalist, Peter Bohlin - Part 1

Sunday, 06 December 2009 11:45 - Last Updated Monday, 07 December 2009 07:23

Copyright © 2009 by Peter Bohlin. All rights reserved. This is a work of art and is protected by copyright law. No part of this work may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form or by any means, without the prior written permission of Peter Bohlin.

A retrospective view of 2010 AIA Gold Medalist, Peter Bohlin - Part 1

Sunday, 06 December 2009 11:45 - Last Updated Monday, 07 December 2009 07:23

© 2009 Peter Bohlin Architects. All rights reserved. This is a conceptual drawing and not a final design. The design is subject to change without notice.

~~Richard H. Smith, FAIA, is a past president of the American Institute of Architects and a past president of the National Endowment for the Arts. He is a past president of the National Endowment for the Arts and a past president of the National Endowment for the Arts. He is a past president of the National Endowment for the Arts and a past president of the National Endowment for the Arts.~~

More on Peter Bohlin and his impressive body of work in Part 2 of this article