

The project consists of a summerhouse located in the beautiful Spanish Island of Menorca. For Dom Arquitectura, whose versatile approach expands beyond architecture into interior design and landscape, the main idea was to strike the right balance between the interior and exterior spaces, studying the relationship between the two entities, they expanded the interior spaces into the outside world, permeating into their physical and visual surroundings.

With our simple and elegant design, we provide a perfect solution for your summerhouse. The quality of our materials and the attention to detail in our construction ensure a long-lasting and beautiful structure for your outdoor space.

Summerhouse in Menorca, Spain, designed by Dom Arquitectura. The image shows the exterior of the building at night, featuring a long wooden deck leading to a covered entrance area. The building has a modern, minimalist design with large glass windows and doors. The lighting is warm and inviting, highlighting the architectural details.

Simply typography, the main idea of the building is to be a place where you can relax and enjoy the view of the sea. The building is a significant

